MESSAGE RECEIVED TUESDAY STATING HE ARRIVES SATURDAY

MERRY OLD GENTLEMAN TO SPEND THREE WEEKS IN CORSICANA

Hurrah! Hurrah! and more great big hurrahs.

Old Santa Claus—himself—in person—is going to make a visit to Corsicana and he will arrive in this city Saturday, December 4, at 2 p. m. in an airplane. He will remain in Corsicana until Christmas Eve night when he will leave on his annual trip which carries him on a visit to all the children in

This startling and very pleasant announcement was made Tuesday morning at the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce when a number of business men met for the pur-pose of receiving Old Santa's answer to an invitation forwarded Monday.

Some of you children might hav the idea that the average busines man is rather hard boiled and care little about Santa Claus. But you could have seen this group of solemn tradesmen gather at the Chamber of Commerce to receive Santa's answer all doubts as to their interest in the jolly old gentlema of the North would have been dis pelled. They tried hard to appear unconcerned but they did not get away with it. There was nardly a word spoken and a nervous tenseness permeated the atmosphere. It was no use to try to hide the fact they were all excited. And that was one meeting at the Chamber of Commerce that all were on time.

All Were Nervous.

These business men made a poor attempt at trying to appear uninterested. They took their seats and not a word was spoken as they nervously watched the door. The a couple of minutes and just when the strain had reached the breaking point a messenger boy onened the door, walked in and presenteda telegram to Sydney Marks. He was so nervous he could hardly sign for the message and the remainder of those present acted as if they were sitting on pins. Finally the message was opened and and with a shout-a real Indian war dance.

The meeting then went to work with a will. There is much to be done to make Santa Claus' stay in Corsicana as pleasant as possible. The city must be decorated and a greeting, the like of which

SANTA CLAUS COMING.

The children-and grown ups for that matter-were thrown into a high state of excitement with the announcement in the Dally Sun that Santa Claus would visit Corsicana in person next Saturday. Just think of it-this jolly old gentleman is going to be right in Corsicanawe can see him and talk to him. Almost unbelievable—but it is true for the merchants of the city have completed all detaffs for his coming and Old Santa has accepted the invitation.

The editor of this paper had a letter from Santa some weeks ago in which he expressed the desire to visit the biggest oil field in the world and to make a short stay here. He said he had passed over this great oil producing section many times but had never had time to stop and visit. #### COIN OF THE REALM

Caesar caused the Roman money to be stamped with his likeness thereby including it among "the things that are Caesar's." In ancient times the emperor owned not only the money but all the substance of his realm, including the lives of his subjects. The same is true today in all these countries in which the government is still an absolute monarchy. The coin of the realm has peculiar interest in that it bears the likeness of the ruler of the nation.

The coin of the United States is not a departure from this rule, although all the figures depicted thereon are symbolic. Upon most of the coins is the goddess of liberty. The eagle, symbol of strength at Christmas Eve journey which the head of Lincoln on the cent.

New York, Dec. 2.—Baron George Tornow, 38, interpreter for a stock broker and formerly a colonel in the Imperial Russian Army, today has for a bride an American heiress whose father, Joseph Clendenin, vice president of the American Smelting and Refining Company, forbade the marriage.

The couple roamed the streets of Manhattan in a taxicab last night, pursued by telephone calls from Mr. Clendenin, seeking a minister or magistrate to marry them and finally exchanged vows before the Rev. Mr. William Phillips at the Little Church Around the Corner, famous haven for eloping couples. The New York American says in a copyrighted story today that Mrs. Tornow escaped from the country home of her parents at Ardistri N. Y., after two weeks of virtual imprisonment that followed a declaration of her intentions.

Baron Tornow and his bride, who was Florence Majorie Clendenin, 27, obtained a license just before the license bureau closed. if any one there could marry them at once, but were informed that the only man with property author ity had gone home. They left im mediately afterward. Mr. Clenden in telephoned to ask if they had been there and said he would never give his consent to the marriage.

The American ways the couple went to his office on lower Broadway and Miss Clendenin waited ir a taxi while Baron Hornow asked Mr. Clendenin's consent. The reply was: "You will never have my consent to any such marriage. I will disinherit my daughter the moment she becomes your wife."
Mr. Clendenin, however, is quot ed as denying that he said this or that Tornow entered his office.

Dear Mr. Newton:

You don't know how happy I am that I am coming to Corsicana. I have always wanted to shake hands with the kids in Corsicana and Navarro County, but I have never been able to make it before this.

I suppose that you have all the nice things that I sent you on display, and your store decorated and all ready for my arrival Saturday. I will be there at 2 o'clock Saturdaytell everybody to be there.

I picked out your toys this time myself, because you have been such a good friend of mine and have always taken such good care of my little friends in Corsicana and around there. The people in that section are my favorite friends and I want them to always have the best.

I want you to see my airplane, I am surely proud of it. I can fly a long ways in one night with it. I can't bring by reindeers and sleds but we will have a better time of it anyhow with the airplane. I will be able to fly around to more towns and emmunities around Corsicana in my plane.

I have made another order of toys and books and dolls and hundreds of other things for Christmas Gifts for you and you will have plenty of things for everybody -you can sell them cheaper than anyone for I have picked you out the best that I have and crated them good—there will be none of them broken. Mr. O. Tnabnit, Corsicana, Texas. Dear Mr. Inabnit:

Just before leaving for Corsicana, I thought that I would drop you a line. I will arrive, as you know, in Corsicana at 2 o'clock p. m., Saturday, December 4th, and I want to ask you to have everything ready-I am depending upon you old-timers to see that I get to meet all my friends in Navarro County,

As I fold you before, I am coming to Corsicana in my airplane and am going to roll it up Beaton Street in front of your store. I will throw candy to the children along, and get as many of them in front of your place of business as possible.

Thru my night trips there I have examined the grades of the children of Corsicana and Navarro County and find that they are at the top of the list-my best presents go to them — I'm proud of them—I have examined the gifts in your store also, and found that your stock rates A-1. More goods, however, have been sent you and you will hav the greatest Christmas stock you have ever had.

I will visit you at your store Saturday when I arrive and will have some more important news for the children and grown-ups in Saturday's paper.

Your friend,

ather than the soil. There are milover West Texas, but due to low not to place pecan trees on these soils, for moisture reasons rather than soil reasons. If artificial water can be supplied to these West Texas soils, which are well drained.

. San Saba county is the banner pe can county of the world because it has more pecan soils and moisture conditions favorable to growth than any other county in the world. Naarra county, for instance, except for two small areas, has pecan trees in black land bottoms only next to the streams where good drainage conditions exist. There are places in Navarro county where pecan trees are found from stream to bluff, but under these soils, less than ten feet deep, which is continuous to the stream and gives a well drained soil. On the other hand, where this substrată is 12 feet or more deep or absent, you will not find a native pecan tree in Central Texas, and probably no other place if the soil is heavy clay. There are bottoms in Central Texas that have began trees from stream to bluff but these hottoms are light textured soil-which give good drainage.

Sinclair Oils in the Blacksmith Shop

With the trend of the times which expanded the quarters of the "village smithy" into large production shops, the anvil and hammer necessarily gave place to large power actuated equipment. Accordingly, whereas the only lubricant needed in the old-fashioned blacksmith shop was an occasional drop of oil on the bellows, a modern forge shop relies very positively on lubrication for the quality and quantity of production. Power hammers must function with a uniformity that can be depended on. A blacksmith's skill is nullified, if he cannot be sure what the hammer will do when he operates the controls. Intermittent operation, long steam lines, wet steam—these are the usual conditions in forge shops, and they are not the easiest for which to supply good lubrication. However, Sinclair oils can and do lubricate where these demands are imposed. The expression of one large plant is quoted herewith:

West Allis, Wisconsin, October 6, 1925.

Sinclair Refining Company, Port Washington Road. Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Gentlemen:

Replying to your recent inquiry regarding our experience with your various lubricants in our plant.

We are pleased to advise that we have used your products in the past year and have failed as yet to receive a single complaint from any of our operating staff. We are operating twenty steam hamniers, which we are lubracting with your "Duro" cylinder oil and have found it extremely satisfactory in that it gives us an even and constant lubrication over the entire piston rod. On our general factory equipment we have been using your "Warrior" engine Oil and your "Shamrock" Lubricant on our line shaft bearings and presses.

We can assure you that we are particularly well pleased to be able to secure our various lubricants from a single source, all of which gives such consistent satisfaction.

> Very truly yours, Obenberger Forge Company,
> D. J. Campbell, Purchasing Agent.
